
The Peloponnese region and Costa Navarino welcome
The ABTA 2015 Travel Convention in Greece

Monday 12 October 2015, London – The Peloponnese Region and Costa Navarino warmly welcome today the delegates of the 2015 ABTA Travel Convention, taking place from 12-14 October 2015.

Following last year's host destination and venue convention in Ljubljana, Slovenia, it is with great excitement that this year's UK travel industry's flagship event takes place in this beautiful and historic part of Greece.

Set out to be a three-day, fully-packed event, the UK's leading decision makers, influencers and key opinion formers from the travel industry will take part in a series of seminars, business workshops, while getting to experience Costa Navarino and its surroundings with visits to the local villages of Giavlova and Pylos.

The prestigious event aims to inspire through outstanding networking programmes and thought-provoking ideas, ultimately challenging the way we think and approach the travel industry.

With a close affinity to British travellers, Costa Navarino is delighted to support such a prestigious event and introduce ABTA delegates to the region's offerings when it comes to its landscape, history and people. Known as the prime sustainable destination in Messinia, Costa Navarino brings authentic experiences to visitors, offering an insight into the region's millennia-long heritage.

Alongside the awarded hotel facilities for guests, including two 5-star properties, The Romanos, a Luxury Collection Resort and The Westin Resort Costa Navarino at the destination's first resort area, guests can also enjoy the two signature golf courses; The Dunes Course and The Bay Course and many sports and leisure activities.

Costa Navarino adheres to strict environmental protection guidelines and principles, while vitally contributing to the local area.
